We've taken the liberty to shake up the traditional Reader's Theater just a bit. Playwright Douglas Love has cleverly combined entertainment and education with original plays, skits, activities and standards-based lessons. This PLAYful curriculum offers a content-rich experience for kids of all learning styles.

Imagine . . .

The plays in the K.I.W.i. Storybooks™ series are designed to provide a wide range of opportunities for learning, using creativity and imagination as a doorway to core academics.

Explore . . .

Teachers with pre-readers can easily use the skit provided in the package to read aloud and select students to get up and act out the scene using their own words. This can also be done with the full-length play taking a few pages at a time on consecutive days.

Educators of readers will delight in these hilarious stories and the opportunity to pretend to be characters while increasing reading comprehension and fluency. All students will enjoy the opportunity to improvise in the background environment using the Creative Play guides provided.

Learn . . .

All this creative expression can then be channeled into the provided core academic lessons complete with adaptations for younger and older learners. Easy to use Educators' Pages and Student Pages provide everything you need to incorporate the experience into your school day – including correlations to National Standards and Blooms Taxonomy.

About the KIWi Storybook backdrops

Backdrops are available in 11 themes: Rainforest and Desert, Farm and Maze, Fire Station and Risky Residence, Submersible, Dinosaurs, TV Studio, Castle, Old West, and Space Station. Each backdrop can be used for education, to perform a play, or in combination with the iPad apps.
